

Predicting Reaction Products

Identify the type of reactions. Use this to predict the products and balance the equations. Then, label all states of matter. The reactions happen at room temperature and some are in aqueous solutions if they are soluble. Refer to the solubility rules for help.

